THE EXPERTS, INC WAS AWARDED IBM DATA MIGRATION PROJECT IN SEOUL, KOREA

FORT LAUDERDALE, FL (February 3, 2012) – The Experts was awarded a Data Migration project in Seoul, Korea with IBM. The project supports one of the world's largest gas and engineering companies. IBM reached out to The Experts in order to assist with Data Migration support on a Lotus Notes application platform routed through Domino and MS Exchange Servers. The project calls for CMT Binary Tree in order to get data exchange from Domino to Exchange. The Experts is responsible for all of the Data Migration.

“The end user here is a dynamic one with ultra-complex needs requiring great attention to detail. We are proud that our partner, IBM, believed in us for this time critical project,” explained David Hoshko, Chief Global Officer for The Experts. “The Experts is excited about our continued expansion in to new and emerging markets with our partners and we see Korea as a country with tremendous growth potential and market stability. Our plan is to invest further and to continue our focus in Korea as a regional PMO to launch from for the surrounding region,” Hoshko continued.
