THE EXPERTS, INC. PROVIDES IT AND COMMUNICATIONS SUPPORT TO CIVPOL FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE

FORT LAUDERDALE, FL (April 25, 2011) – IFC (International Field Communication), a division of The Experts, Inc., won a competitive bid to provide IT and Communications support to DynCorp International as the Civilian Police Program (CIVPOL) prime contractor to the Office of International Narcotics and Law Enforcement (INL) a part of the US Department of State (DOS). The Experts has 61 technicians deployed to both Iraq and Afghanistan for two projects, the Iraq Civilian Advisor Support (ICAS) and the Afghanistan Civilian Advisor Support (ACAS) program. The two program's combined for an earning potential of $10.3 million over eight months (1 NOV 2010 to 30 JUN 2011).

The Experts' mission in both Iraq and Afghanistan is a critical component to the larger challenge of helping bring stability and the rule of law to these countries. "These kind of missions are about more than just fixing equipment. Our technicians provide a valuable service to those deployed and working to better the lives of the people in these countries," Steve Appling, Operations Manager, The Experts.

In Iraq, The Experts deploys teams of field service engineers throughout Iraq maintaining a variety of communications platforms from Land Mobile Radio (LMR), Codan HF Over the Horizon, and Very Small Aperture Terminal (VSAT), data LAN and WAN, satellite telephone, and other specialized data network configurations. The Experts technicians are an integrated part of the overall mission support team. This project is expected to continue through March 2012.

The Experts has a similar mission in Afghanistan. For ACAS, The Experts is able to incorporate not only U.S. Technicians but also a pool of highly qualified international support staff to generate a diverse work force. Recently, DynCorp won the work to transition the project to Department of Defense from Department of State in Afghanistan. The Experts continues to work with DynCorp to determine a transition strategy for the project in the field. This project is ongoing and is expected to continue through 2012.
